Yes...I believe TV/advertising in general has gotten completly out of control. Just look at an average video game now and the violence it exibits (age warning or not). Violence in TV is just one of the MANY outragious, and waaaay too accepted practices/promotions today. SEX on tv is like the norm now! WTF? What has happened to this world!!! The only standards or asperations we have to give to our youth (especially young girls) is....unless you have a pretty face and the perfect body you are not alright...but just in case your not...we have a show just for you! ie: Swan, Extreme Makeover, Dr. 90210 etc. Or...if you have lots and lots of money you can buy this much "bling, bling" and live just like your favorite rapper or celebrity...but if you don't we have a show you can go on to win $1 million +. ie: Survivor, Celebrity Cribs, It's Good to Be_____ etc..All you have to do is show lotzzz of cleavage or eat a plate of magets or some rediculous delicatesin from God knows where. This countrie's standards and abroad have been minimized to nothing but material things...Beauty and Wealth are all any tv show focuses on or basis' it's cast around! It's absolutly sickning!!! It makes me hate to be a woman and makes me want to live far away on a deserted island where...what you are, who you are, and how you look are perfectly excepted...as is! Does anyone else feel this way??